Senate Committee On Interoceanic Canals In A Deadlock In Panama Question.

CARMACK'S VOTE IS NOT COUNTED

Tennessee Senator Telegraphed To Committee To Vote
For Sea Level Plans Which Opposes
The Administration.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, May 12.—Debate in the Senate Committee on Interoceanic Canals, reveals the fact that the committee now stands a tie with two members absent. The entire morning was spent in discussing whether the telegram of Senator Carmack of Tennessee, one of the absentees, could be counted as a vote and the committee finally adjourned until Wednesday next.

Against Government
Senator Carmack, who is home, telegraphed to count his vote against the lock canal plan and in favor of the sea-level canal. This would have made a majority in favor of the sea-level canal. The administration hoped to have the committee report favoring the local system, which is their idea of the canal.

UNION OF CHURCHES NOT TO BE REACHED

Poor Outlook For Merging of Presbyterian and Cumberland Presbyterian Societies.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Decatur, Ill., May 12.—It now appears possible that the proposed union of the Presbyterian and Cumberland Presbyterian denominations may not be effected at the general assembly of the Cumberland Presbyterian church, to be held in this city next week, notwithstanding a majority of the delegates have been instructed in favor of the proposition. The opponents of the plan to unite the two denominations are preparing to put legal difficulties in the way and as a result it is possible that the proposed union may be delayed. It is said that an application for an injunction against the union will be asked in the circuit court here Monday. The injunction will be asked on the ground that the Cumberland Presbyterian church properties were bought with money given for teaching and preaching the Cumberland Presbyterian faith and doctrines, and that no board of trustees or other officers has a right to transfer to the Presbyterian church any more than to Jewish or Catholic churches. The claim will be that the opponents of the union represent the Cumberland Presbyterian church, to which the funds rightfully belong. Unionists say that this position is untenable and will not stand in the courts, the general assembly having power to do whatsoever it pleases, though its congregation has the individual right to say whether or not it will be called Presbyterian. The Cumberland Presbyterian church has 136,000 active members, 2,322 churches, 1,650 ministers and about $10,000,000 worth of property. The real fight will be over the church funds.

HUNDRED MILLION INVESTED IN CUBA

Report of Banker Shows What Americans Have Put in Island—Amounts Underestimated.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Washington, D. C., May 12.—Consul Baehr, at Cienfuegos, has sent the Department of Commerce and Labor, the following estimate of American investments in Cuba, prepared by the vice president of the National Bank of Cuba, Mr. Merchant:
Sugar and tobacco $54,000,000
Railroad and street railroads 27,000,000
City and country real estate 11,000,000
Fruit culture 3,500,000
Mining 3,000,000
Commercial and manufacturing 3,500,000
Banking 4,000,000
Steamship interests 1,000,000
Real estate mortgages 2,500,000
Mr. Baehr says that other conservative business men in Cuba, however, hold that these figures should be largely increased, as the sugar industry and tobacco interests are believed to be really double the amounts given by Mr. Merchant, while the railroad investments are very much underestimated.

EVANSVILLE MILK DEPOT DESTROYED

Building Partially Ruined and Machinery Badly Damaged Early This Morning.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Evansville, May 12.—Early this morning the milk depot, operated by James W. Christison, was destroyed by fire. The machinery was badly damaged but the loss is fully covered by insurance and Mr. Christison will continue his business. The building, in which the depot is situated, belongs to the Snashall Mygatt estate and was partially covered by insurance. It will be rebuilt. The structure is located in the rear of the Evansville bank and the fire had gained good headway before it was discovered by Night Watchman Blunt. The heroic work of the firemen was all they saved the adjacent buildings from burning.

STATE NOTES

Joshua Hooking was elected president of the Racine Business Men's association on Thursday. The association also took definite steps to go ahead with a new opera-house project. Walter M. Curtiss, who represented Koshong county in the last legislature, has announced that he would be a candidate for reelection, and he will at once begin work to secure the nomination. Contrary to expectations the supreme court did not reach the Bergh suit to test the constitutionality of the state civil service law on Thursday. It will probably be reached about noon today. All of the state employees under the law are anxiously awaiting the outcome. The civil service commission has rendered a decision that state employees can not circulate nomination papers under the new primary election law. This is a blow at the present state officers who are candidates and are conducting campaigns from their offices through subordinates. If you lost anything, advertise it.

ADMIRAL CONVERSE REMAINS IN NAVY

Reaches Age Limit Tomorrow But Navy Needs His Services For Some Time Yet.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Washington, D. C., May 12.—Though Rear Admiral Converse tomorrow reaches the age limit for active service and in the ordinary course of events would be placed on the retired list of the navy, it is probable that he will continue to perform the duties of chief of the Bureau of Navigation for some time to come. The President has so requested, the request being made on the ground that his continuance at the head of the bureau is demanded by the needs of the service. It is unusual for an officer of the navy to be asked to remain in active service after he has reached the retiring age and in the case of Admiral Converse it is a personal tribute to his high qualities and his long and efficient career as an officer. Admiral Converse already has the unusual record of having filled no less than three bureau positions in succession, besides having commanded one of the finest of the big battleships of the navy, the Illinois. He is a native of Vermont and graduated from the naval academy in 1865.

TRUST INCREASES GOVERNMENT MONEY

Monopoly of Tobacco in France Has Enlarged Profits of the Republic.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Washington, May 12.—The French government is finding its tobacco monopoly is increasing the profits to the government by the millions. According to a report to the Department of Commerce and Labor by Consul General Skinner, the receipts of the monopoly during the year 1904 amounted to $86,477,895, an increase of $2,519,950 over 1903. During 1904 the expenses of the monopoly amounted to $15,933,921, a decrease of $324,176. Thus the total profits amounted to $70,543,974, which makes an increase of $2,595,773 in the total profits of 1903. The sale of cigars increased 6.51 per cent, aggregating 5,801,183 pounds; cigarette sales increased 5.04 per cent, and were 4,552,606 pounds. The cut-packet tobacco showed the greatest increase in popularity, 62,479,263 pounds being sold, and roll and chewing tobacco sales were 2,802,325 pounds, or 2.03 per cent more than in 1903. Of tobacco powder the sales increased to 10,230,465 pounds. The average rate of tobacco consumption in France for 1904 was 35.23 ounces, the value being $2.50, of which $2.21 was returned to the treasury of the French government.

In 1904 $2,602,017 worth of tobacco was produced in France, as compared to $4,135,659 in 1903. There was a decrease in the number of tobacco planters and acreage, but a still larger decrease occurred in the yield, it having amounted to only 2,859 per acre, against 3.3 pounds the preceding year. Although the price advanced from $17.20 to $17.97 per 220 pounds, the returns per acre fell from $258.04 to $227.92 per 2.47 acres. The increase of tobacco imports into France in 1904 was large. From Kentucky, Maryland, Ohio and Virginia came 2,622 more tons of leaf, or a total of 18,595 tons, while from Havana, Mexico, Sumatra, Java and the Levant came 3,196 tons, an increase of 22. From Hungary, Ukraine, Astrakhan, Java, etc., came 4,129 tons of cut-packet tobacco, an increase of 3,017 tons.

LOCAL ATHLETES IN EVANSVILLE CONTEST

Janesville High School Boys Hope to Win Dual Meet With Evansville.

Those who are representing the Janesville high school in the dual track meet at Evansville this afternoon left this noon for that city. The local boys have been working hard to prepare for this meet and with the material which they took they will undoubtedly return with highest honors. Evansville has a good track team and last Saturday defeated the strong Stoughton aggregation by the close margin of one point, but the Janesville boys are all the more determined to win, for it has been some time since a high school team from this city has defeated the Evansville boys. Evansville always puts out a strong team in whatever they attempt. They have good supporters back of them who are only too willing to go down into their pockets for the support of the team. There will undoubtedly be some good records made at Evansville today, despite the fact that they will be at a disadvantage because of the wind, which will affect the records made in the runs and weights. Those who will represent the Bower City high school are Wright, Lee, Witherell, Woodworth, Davis, Tiernan, Cunningham, Tallman, Langdon, Jensen, Stewart, Smith and Baker. There were about thirty in all that left on the 11:45 today, among them were Misses Cora Sovierhill, Margaret Pihfeld, Effie Jones, Hazel Fisher, Genevieve Dower and Wilma

COMBINATION WOULD OUST REPUBLICANS

Democrats and Others of "Opposition"
In Rhode Island Have Fused.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Providence, R. I., May 12.—Democrats and others opposed to the republican control of Rhode Island met in state convention today to choose a candidate for United States Senator to succeed George F. Wetmore, whose term expires with the conclusion of the present session. The convention is the first of its kind ever held in Rhode Island. Owing to the peculiar registration provisions, the democrats determined this year to force the fighting, and decided upon the novel expedient of selecting their candidate in advance of the election of the members of the legislature and appealing to the people to support him, against any candidate the republicans may select. The democrats believe that their chances are exceedingly bright of winning the seat in the senate. Senator Wetmore is a candidate for reelection, but he is opposed by a triple alliance in his own party consisting of three millionaires, Senator Nelson W. Aldrich, Col. Samuel P. Colt and Marden J. Perry. It is expected that Colonel Colt will be named for the senate and the democrats are of the opinion that the split thus caused in the republican ranks will revert to their benefit. Several names are mentioned in connection with the democratic-independent nomination. One of these is ex-Governor Lucius E. C. Garvin, who originated the idea of having a state convention to name the senatorial candidate. Stephen O. Edwards, a well-known lawyer, is also mentioned for the nomination. The Independents are booming Rathbone Gardner, former republican United States district attorney and one of the best campaigners in the state.

...FORTY YEARS AGO...

Janesville Daily Gazette, Saturday, May 12, 1866.—Oshkosh, May 12.—A great fire last night destroyed 30 business buildings. It broke out in a jewelry store and extended north to Algona street, destroying every building in that block. It then crossed Ferry street and burned the Postoffice, Washington Hall, Schneider's large theatre hall, the arcade building of three stories and Evan's row of new buildings, extending from the arcade building to Jefferson Avenue. This is the largest fire since the memorable great fire of 1859. Every public hall in the city is destroyed. The buildings were mostly wooden structures. A large proportion of the goods were saved, but the loss cannot fall short of $100,000.

"Nothing is impossible: there are ways which lead to every thing; if we had sufficient will we should always have sufficient means." Newspaper advertising is "sufficient means" by which to accomplish any otherwise commercial "impossibility."

Cultivate the habit of going to church and it will stay with you. It costs no more to be a man than to be an imitation and there's vastly more in it. It takes time to develop any thing that is good, but the time spent in the effort is never wasted. If you want to be a thinker, form the habit of thinking and you will be good company for yourself. There are lots of vacancies in the front row of every profession or business calling. Get to the front. The tide of opportunity ebbs and flows with clock-like regularity. Why not take advantage of it? Judge Lindsay of Denver has a model juvenile court which should be duplicated in every city of the land. If you can not reach your highest ideal of goodness, be as good as you can. Reward comes with every effort. The full stature of manhood is reached by slow and steady strides. The giants of the forests do not mature in a night. The young man who complains of lack of opportunity in this year of our Lord, nineteen hundred and six, is both blind and deaf and there is no hope for him.

OUR SATURDAY NIGHT.

Drop a pebble in the water, just a splash, and it is gone. But there's half a hundred ripples circling on and on and on. Spreading, spreading, from the center, flowing on and out to the sea. And there is no way of telling where the end is going to be.

Drop a pebble in the water, in a minute you forget. But there's little waves a flowing, and there's ripples circling yet. And those little waves a flowing to a great big wave has grown. And you've disturbed a mighty river just by dropping in a stone.

Drop an unkind word, or careless, in a minute it is gone. But there's half a hundred ripples circling on and on and on. They keep spreading, spreading, spreading from the center as they go. And there is no way to stop them once you've started them to flow.

Drop an unkind word, or careless, in a minute you forget. But there's little waves a flowing, and there's ripples circling yet. And perhaps in some sad heart a mighty wave of tears you've stirred. And disturbed a life that was happy when you dropped that unkind word.

Drop a word of cheer and kindness, just a flash, and it is gone. But there's half a hundred ripples circling on and on and on. Bearing hope and joy and comfort on each splashing, dashing wave. Till you wouldn't believe the volume of the one kind word you gave.

Drop a word of cheer and kindness, in a minute you forget. But there's gladness still a swelling, and there's joy a circling yet. And you've rolled a wave of comfort whose sweet music can be heard. Over miles and miles of water just by dropping a kind word.

Gus Williams of Yonkers, New York, famous as a newspaper writer, was invited to attend a Knight Templars banquet at Joliet some time ago. He was unable to be present but sent the greeting entitled, "Drop a Pebble in the Water." The sentiment which runs through it is so choice that it merits reproduction.

Have you ever noticed, as you stood on the shore of an inland lake, on a quiet summer evening, when the surface of the water was like a sheet of glass, that suddenly, and without apparent cause, the water at your feet was disturbed, and your ears were greeted with the song of little waves as they rippled on the beach.

You may not be able to discover the cause of disturbance, but somewhere on the lake the dip of an oar, or revolution of a wheel, has set the water in motion. Every boy remembers how he used to stand on the banks of the swimming pond and cast a stone far out to watch the eddy and the perfect circle described by the little waves that started shoreward in all directions.

It is interesting to stand on the ocean beach and watch the tide come in, as it forces its way against a strong head wind and deposits on the white sand rollers after rollers of water which no power can resist.

Many of the streams which empty into the gulf, on the west coast of Florida, are filled with wild hyacinth, which some enthusiasts planted years ago, a good deal as the German carp were planted in Wisconsin waters. The plant is of luxurious growth and the bayous, which line the shore, are covered with it like a mat.

The wind drifts it out into the stream and then the tide takes it and carries it back and forth frequently obstructing navigation. But the tide is the controlling force and it is no uncommon thing to see an island of hyacinth floating out with the tide against a strong head wind.

The ripple which disturbs the surface of the lake and the tide which ebbs and flows with monotonous regularity, are object lessons which apply to every life and which may be studied to advantage.

The thing called influence is more or less intangible because so frequently exerted without volition and yet the network of human life is so complex that it touches at every point. It is idle to claim that we have no influence for that is a blight with which every soul is endowed and whether we will or no, it eddies out into the great stream of humanity like the little waves that lap on the shore when the surface of the lake is disturbed.

The character of a city, a town or a neighborhood depends upon the influence for good or evil exerted by a majority of its citizens. This is equally true of the character of a nation and is proof of the statement that all kinds of government, whether local, state or national, is as good as the people will to have it. Conditions may not be ideal, but they approach it in proportion to the influence for good exerted.

Many good meaning people shirk responsibility in all affairs of public interest, and assume the attitude of aliens but it is impossible to shirk the negative influence, and this is never helpful.

Society is composed of units and there are circles within circles where the ripple of influence tells for good or evil. The cheery good-bye in the morning and the kiss of greeting in the evening that seemed so sacred back in the days of the honeymoon, have stirred the chords of melody and brought to the heart of the wife and mother a song of rejoicing in the duty of household care.

The home, however humble, is a paradise, where good influences prevail, and the children go out from such a home strong in purpose and thoroughly equipped for the battle of life. Where such homes predominate, society is wholesome and free from moral taint or pollution.

Some one has said that every man and woman is a creature of habit and the statement is true. A gentleman who married in middle life, surprised his wife by putting on his hat as the first article of wearing apparel in the morning. He had been in the habit of dressing in this way so long that it did not occur to him how ridiculous a spectacle he made in the presence of spectators.

The man who has been a hard drinker for years, gets up at daylight and makes the rounds of half a dozen saloons to prepare him for a late breakfast.

The woman who crowds you off the sidewalk or takes your seat in a crowded car without a "thank you," has practiced the incivility so long that it seems her God-given right.

Practices of virtue as well as of vice are very largely matters of habit. Hundreds of people go to church on a Sunday morning because they have cultivated the habit of church going and a multitude of people stay at home for the same reason.

People practice the art of lying and deceit until it becomes second nature. Men are profane, or abstain from swearing for much the same reason.

These habits which cling to us down to the very end of time, are the tides which ebb and flow through life with monotonous regularity. They carry us with irresistible force and make or mar destiny in proportion to the good or evil which acts as the motive power.

Happy the man or woman whose childhood was surrounded with good influences and whose life is controlled by habits of thought and action which are pure and wholesome.

PRESS COMMENT.

Right You Are, Neighbor. La Crosse Tribune: The Janesville Gazette, one of the strong and prosperous papers of the state also believes in the "Buy it at home" policy.

No? Sheboygan Journal: The word "obey" has been omitted from the Presbyterian marriage ceremony, but no man will refuse to wed for that reason.

Sarah's Peace Overture. Chicago Record-Herald: Mme. Bernhardt played in a beer garden at Seattle. This should help further to close the breach between France and Germany.

With Excellent Reason. El Paso Herald: A Berlin newspaper is afraid that Mr. Roosevelt thinks himself quite as big a man as the Kaiser. Shouldn't be at all surprised if he did.

They Hiss "Muck!" Oshkosh Northwestern: The bitterness between The Sentinel and The Free Press of Milwaukee has at last reached a point where the lie is exchanged seven days in the week.

Small Wonder. El Paso Herald: San Francisco had 50,494 frame buildings and only 3331 structures of other materials than wood. No wonder she burns so patiently, persistently, and thoroughly.

Has An Ominous Sound. Exchange: The gawkier of Baroda is to pay a visit to New York and a warm official reception will be prepared just as soon as it is discovered who or why or what a gawkier is.

Work Will Go Right On. Racine Times: The senate has about reached the conclusion that the salaries of the members of the canal commission can be reduced without causing any interruption in the work.

Coddling a Delusion. Exchange: The Kansas City Star (Ind.) thinks that "the prophecy according to Joel, that 'your old men shall dream dreams,' is borne out distinctly by the assiduity displayed by Secretary Shaw in coddling his White House boomlet."

Nobody Wants 'Em. Exchange: Somebody has stolen the plans of the British battleship Dreadnought and suspicion is directed towards the United States. It need not be, for we neither wish to whip that boat nor want to duplicate her. And we have naval architects of our own on the government payroll.

His Race Card Too Tame. La Crosse Chronicle: Col. George W. Harvey, editor of Harper's Weekly, and the architect of the brightest paragraphs that have ever illuminated the pages of that interesting publication, is of the opinion that the Hon. Chas. W. Fairbanks of Indiana will be the next republican candidate for the presidency of the United States. There is a chance, however, that Col. Harvey's wish is the parent of this rather remarkable expression. Col. Harvey is looking around for a republican presidential candidate who could be beaten by Woodrow Wilson. And of course Mr. Fairbanks "looks good." But we are looking forward to more excitement in the campaign of 1908 than Col. Harvey is framing up for us in his popular journal of civilization.

From Father To Son. Jefferson County Union: The Palmyra Enterprise of last week in its items gleaned from its columns thirty years ago has the following:

"Mr. Adam Grimm, who died at Jefferson on Monday, of last week, was in all probability the largest beer raiser and producer of honey in the United States. Mr. Grimm was one of the most patriotic citizens of the county and had an interest in public affairs. Thus it is that many of our best men are passing away."

And in its editorial columns passes the following comment: "It is not always, when an honorable, industrious and public spirited man dies, that he leaves a son who is able to make up to the community the loss which it sustains. Thirty years ago the city of Jefferson and also the county sustained a loss, as may be noted in reviewing the items from the file of the Enterprise published in another column. The son suspended his studies to take up his father's work, but resumed them later and has since proven himself a patriotic citizen and faithful official, a worthy son of his parent. Today he is judge-elect of the twelfth judicial circuit of Wisconsin and holds a position as county judge and also a warm place in the hearts of his constituents, as shown by the strong support given him at the recent election. Adam Grimm left his country a rich inheritance in giving them a son worthy of his father's name. If such a case were true to every great and good man, there would be less cause to blush, as we sometimes do, at law and its administration. But it is often the case that the son is a weak representative of his father's character, and frequently he is unworthy of the parental name."

MYSTERIOUS CIPHER IS SENT TO MARSHAL By One-Legged Tramp Named Goodlin Who Did Not Keep Promise To Leave City. Several days ago the police officers took into camp an ill-kempt, swarthy-visaged, one-legged tramp who was hobbling about with a crutch and cane and offering shoe-strings to the passer-by for a small consideration. There was something absolutely threatening about the gleaming eyes of the stranger and the only thing about him which would tend to disarm suspicion was the soft, subdued quality of a very musical and pleasing voice. After he had been in the lock-up over night he was released with the understanding that he should leave the city at once. This he failed to do and Thursday he was picked up again. In the meantime a postal addressed to the chief of police of Janesville was received at headquarters. On the back of the same the signature of "Frank Goodlin" was affixed to the following mysterious grouping of symbols:

F O K
O O O
N O G

Some who have seen the postal card are of the opinion that it is a cipher message; that the tramp had in some way come into possession of secret information regarding a zinc mine and having taken a fancy to the Janesville city marshal is trying to divulge some valuable information. If the cards be allowed to represent a well-known group of "sucker-holes" on a piece of property in the neighborhood of Belmont, then it can be plainly seen that the point northeast of the central "sucker-hole" is in all likelihood the favored spot. Spelling it in two directions one gets the well known pointer "O. K.," while if one begins to read to the left, commencing at the southeast corner, he gets the phrase "GO ON ON." Or commencing at the southwest corner and reading to the right one gets "NO GO."

There is one discouraging thing about the device, however. Reading diagonally, commencing with the "F" one gets the word "FOG" and following the same procedure with the "K" the word "KON," which is the reformed spelling for the word "con," abbreviation for "confidence game." Proceeding in a similar manner, commencing at the southeast and south-west corners, one gets in phonetic spelling the words "gait" and "knock." It is hard to see what connection these can have with the buried treasure unless the mine is in reality located under the golf links, instead of the well-known plot of ground near Belmont, and the ovals indicate the several "holes" on the course.

When shown the postal, after a severe arraignment for not getting out of town, this morning, the tramp refused to offer any explanations. He was given a last chance to shake the dust of the city and after inquiring where he would find a railroad track leading to Mississippi, hobbled away, soon disappearing in the middle distance.

ASSISTANT OF JOHN DEITZ GETS A LONG PRISON TERM

Valentine Weisenbach Will Spend 12 Years at Waupun for Shooting at Sheriff and Posse.

Valentine Weisenbach, neighbor and aide of John Deitz, defender of the Cameron dam, having been convicted of assault with intent to kill and murder the sheriff and his posse of deputies, was sentenced by Judge Vinje on Thursday to serve 12 years in the state's prison at Waupun. The trial was concluded last week, District Attorney Frank L. McNamara of Sawyer county conducting the prosecution. The shooting took place on May 3, 1905, and both Deitz as well as Weisenbach is alleged to have participated in it.

H. M. Brundage. Last evening at six o'clock Mrs. B. B. Baker of South Franklin street received a telegram announcing the serious illness of her father, H. M. Brundage, in Lockport, N. Y. Word of his death, however, was received by the family at seven o'clock, just ten minutes after she had departed. Mr. Brundage has visited in Janesville and has friends here.

WHAT THEY SAY.

It's quite common for a mother to bring in her family to the dentist and say, "Dr. Richards, I want you to fix up the teeth of these children."

"My neighbor, So-and-So, is a patient of yours and speaks highly of your work."

"They tell me YOU don't hurt and I've had enough experience with dentists to wish to have my children dealt with as easily as possible."

By far the largest part of Dr. Richards' growing practice is brought to him or sent to him by well-pleased former patients.

"Very often they will send up a little note by the stranger, saying: 'This is my friend, So-and-So. You didn't hurt me and I recommended him to come to you.'"

So it goes. Try Dr. Richards yourself and you, too, won't regret it.

Another Shipment of Monuments to Monroe, Wis.

Never in the history of the monument business have so many high-class pieces of work been shipped from Janesville as during the past few months. Only a few weeks ago Mr. Geo. Bresce shipped a carload of work to Albany, and yesterday he completed loading another car to be sent to Monroe, where every piece will be placed in the cemeteries there. Competition seems to cut no figure with Mr. Bresce, as these goods were sold in a locality where he came in competition with many other firms, but the price and the high-class quality sold the goods. That it pays to keep a large stock of first-class goods reasonably priced is shown by the large orders that are coming to this firm.

JOHN YOUNG BEING SUED FOR DIVORCE

John A. Young of Brodhead has been examined adversely before Court Commissioner Thomas Luchsinger, in Monroe, in a divorce suit that has been brought against him by his wife, Mrs. Marie J. Young. The principal purpose of the examination was to ascertain how much he is worth. The parties were married December 9, 1905, in Milwaukee and separated February 15 of the present year. Mrs. Young alleges cruel and inhuman treatment. She was a Connecticut woman and Mr. Young became acquainted with her, it is said, from having dealt with her husband, who was a dealer in pearls and precious stones. Mr. Young being a speculator in Wisconsin pearls. According to the commonly-told story, her former husband died two or three years ago and Mr. Young afterward became acquainted with her as she continued her husband's business for a time after his death. He induced her to close out the business and marry him and she came to Milwaukee to meet him. She is 51 years of age while he is in the neighborhood of 75. Colin W. Wright of Monroe and A. N. Randall of Brodhead are attorneys for Mrs. Young and Burr Sprague is Mr. Young's attorney. Mr. Young is willing to let his wife have a divorce and would be satisfied to pay her some alimony, but is fighting paying any large sum.

SUMMONED FROM ACROSS THE SEA

DUNDEE, SCOTLAND, CHURCH HAS DECIDED UPON

REV. ROBERT C. DENISON

As the American Minister to Occupy Pulpit for Brief Time During Summer of 1906.

Each year, during the summer vacation of its regular pastor, the Congregational church at Dundee, Scotland, calls an American minister to occupy the pulpit, paying all of the expenses incurred on the long journey and providing a delightful outing and change of environment for the one so happily favored. This year the call has come for Rev. Robert C. Denison, pastor of the First Congregational church of this city. He will probably accept and leave here the last of July or the first of August, the time when he usually has his short summer vacation. Dundee is a city of about 170,000 inhabitants, located on the Firth of Tay on the eastern coast, about fifty miles northeast of Edinburgh. The high tribute to the local pastor conveyed in this invitation from across the sea will be appreciated not only by the man so signally honored and his congregation, but by all Janesville.

PAPER TRUST DEAD

Court Decrees Combine Must Cease to Exist.

IS IN RESTRAINT OF TRADE

Business of General Company and 23 Manufacturing Concerns Is Held to Be in Violation of Interstate Commerce Law.

St. Paul, Minn., May 12.—The paper trust was dissolved Friday. This is the climax of the suit against the trust begun by the attorney general of the United States December 27, 1904.

As a result of the smashing of the trust the price of white paper has fallen from $2.35 per 100 pounds to $1.85. Compensation has been restored, but it is understood a new combine will be formed which threatens to increase the price to $2.50 per 100 pounds.

Three members of the trust who had refused to answer questions on the ground that they might incriminate themselves were fined $1,000 each. They paid the fines into court.

Attorney Kellogg, for the government, and Attorney Planders, for the defendants, appeared before Judge Sanborn, sitting as a circuit judge, and Mr. Kellogg moved that the mandate from the United States supreme court affirming the order that the witnesses must testify be filed. Judge Sanborn ordered the mandate filed. The witnesses then appeared before the United States examiner and offered to testify. The defendants then withdrew their answers. Mr. Kellogg announced that the government did not care to examine the witnesses, and moved for a decree in favor of the government. Judge Sanborn ordered that the decree be entered for the government for the relief prayed, and that the decree should be settled on June 16. The proceedings before the court and the examiner were then adjourned.

The three witnesses who refused to testify, namely, C. I. McNair, of the Northwestern Paper company; A. C. Bossard, of the Innes Paper company; and B. F. Nelson, of the Hennepin Paper company, paid into court $100 fine assessed against them for contempt of court for refusing to answer the questions put to them at a former hearing.

Pay Fines for Contempt.

Suit was brought by Frank B. Kellogg and James M. Beck, special assistant attorneys general of the United States, on behalf of the United States against the General Paper company and 23 paper manufacturing corporations in Wisconsin, Minnesota and Michigan a little over a year ago. The complaint alleged that the defendants, in violation of the provisions of the Sherman act, entered into an agreement, combination and conspiracy with each other to restrain trade and commerce among the several states and to control, regulate and monopolize said commerce, and that this was accomplished by organizing the General Paper company, of Chicago, with a capital stock of $100,000, divided into 1,000 shares of $100 each, which stock was divided among the paper manufacturing corporations in the proportion of their average daily output of paper, that each of the corporations thereupon, entered into a contract, making the General Paper company its exclusive selling agent. The defendants filed answers, and testimony was taken for several months, most of the facts showing a combination were elicited from the officers of the various defendant companies. Finally the defendants refused to furnish any further testimony or to answer any questions, on the grounds that the testimony would tend to criminate the witnesses and the corporations, and on the ground that the testimony was irrelevant and immaterial. The case went to the supreme court of the United States and was there argued on the 2d of January in connection with the "tobacco" cases.

Violate Anti-Trust Act.

In both the paper case and the tobacco case the question argued and decided was that witnesses were not exempt from answering on the ground that their testimony would tend to criminate the corporations. The supreme court held that the evidence was clearly material, that the bill of complaint charged an unlawful combination and conspiracy, and that the testimony tended to show it.

Witnesses Must Answer.

Appleton, Wis., May 12.—The General Paper company will reorganize on entirely new lines, according to James A. Kimberly, president of the alleged paper trust. In an interview Friday evening, the decision is the result of a meeting held in Milwaukee when steps were taken by the directors to withdraw an answer to the government. Kimberly would not say how the company would be formed to avoid violating the anti-trust law, but he felt confident that such a selling agency could be organized without future fear of government action.

Extends Extradition.

London, May 12.—The extradition bill, covering the convention between the Balfour government and the United States for the inclusion of bribery among extraditable crimes, passed its second reading in the house of lords Friday.

STUDENTS ARE BEATEN BY CIRCUS EMPLOYEES

University of Missouri Freshmen Receives Shot in Melee and Others Are Injured.

Columbia, Mo., May 12.—Several hundred University of Missouri students engaged in a fight with show men from Cole Brothers circus at midnight Thursday, and as a result Maynard McDole, a freshman from Craig, Mo., was shot in the head and is in a critical condition in the hospital here, and several others are slightly hurt.

McDole's recovery is doubtful. The bullet entered behind the left ear, penetrating to the right jaw, which is probably broken. McDole underwent an operation at the Parker hospital, but the bullet was not located. Several of the other students engaged in the fight had scalp wounds dressed in the hospital.

C. C. Bailey, of Campbell, Mo., was bruised about the head and breast.

A body of about 500 students assembled at the courthouse and marched to the evening performance of the circus on the fair grounds, north of town. They demanded a 25-cent rate of admission, which was granted. They occupied seats together throughout the main performance and maintained an orderly behavior, occasionally giving Missouri yells and songs.

After the performance a number of the leaders demanded that they be allowed to remain during the concert which followed. Show men armed with tent poles drove the students from the tent, striking several of them.

This incensed the students and they ran to a siding near the Washburn railroad station, where the circus train was preparing to depart.

Here a battle ensued between the circus employees and 250 students, in which bricks were thrown freely, shots were fired and tent poles wielded vigorously by both students and show men.

The students captured a circus chariot, which was found Friday in a field near town. The circus train left town at one o'clock Friday morning and was delayed by greased and loosened rails and an open switch, the tampering with the track being ascribed to the students.

FRAUDS IN GARB OF CHURCH

Visit Homes Under Cover of Ministerial Privilege and Carry Information Regarding Brand of Oil Used to Agents of Octopus.

Chicago, May 12.—Collusion between the railroads and their employees for extending the business of the Standard Oil company, to the ruin of independent competitors, was the subject of testimony Friday by a number of witnesses in the federal building.

It was the second day of the investigation by the interstate commerce commission, and the exposure of reprehensible methods alleged against the octopus became more damaging as it proceeded. Former employees of the corporation told of railroad agents in the pay of the Standard, of freight rates that had been advanced to harass competitors, of discrimination, and other underhanded practices.

There was marked contrast between the willing manner in which testimony was given by these men who for years had been in the service of the trust and the extreme reluctance that characterized the evidence of railroad officials.

William T. Lane, who was agent for the company at Youngstown, O., prior to 1892, told of many instances where ministers were on the pay roll, put there for the purpose of getting information from them. The men of the cloth, he said, agreed to spy on their parishioners in return for a monthly stipend. They did this, according to Lane's statements, by going from house to house, ostensibly visiting for the purpose of church work, but in reality making the calls for the purpose of finding out what brand of oil was used by them.

A list was kept by each minister, which he turned over to Lane. Then Lane in turn would send his men to the consumer, buying oil from a competitor of the company he represented, telling such consumer that the oil used by him was low grade and "smoky." Lane will disclose this system in detail when he takes the witness stand.

Standard Pooh-Bah.

Maywood Maxon, of Decatur, Ill., who had been everything from a porter to district manager for the Standard Oil company, in Illinois, late Thursday told of the rebates and petty trickery practices by the Standard Oil company.

The existence of "fake" companies was also outlined, showing that the Republic Oil company, which came into the field as an independent company, was in fact a "fake" company organized by the Standard Oil crowd to compete with independent companies, in communities where the feeling against Standard Oil methods was so strong that the people would not take the product at any price.

The witness also told of the petty bribes given by Standard Oil officials to state oil inspectors. Generally cigars and drinks were sufficient to cause the condemnation of independent oil and the acceptance of Standard's product.

Pipe Line and Rail Rates.

President Ripley, of the Santa Fe railroad, in which H. H. Rogers is a director, told the commission of the completion of a pipe line from the Kansas oil fields to Kansas City, along the Santa Fe's right of way. The rate for oil on the railroad went up with a jump when the line was completed for the Standard Oil.

"It was a mere coincidence that the rate went up at that time," said the witness. "Besides, the pipe line had all the oil business."

Annual passes to the agents of Standard Oil were given in Illinois, it is said, and none to the agents of the independent companies. This made a saving of $300 a year at least for each of the agencies in Illinois, which permitted the many cut rates necessary to crushing out competitors with no money loss to Standard Oil.

Indiana Law Is Defective.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 12.—Attorney General Miller said Friday he had written James A. Garfield, commissioner of corporations, offering to assist in any way possible in prosecution of the Standard Oil company in Indiana, but has received no reply. He declared, however, that he knows of no violation of the laws of this state by the Standard. He has informed Garfield that the Indiana law does not give him the power possessed by the attorney general of Ohio to bring suits in the supreme court against offending corporations. It is likely he will ask the legislature next winter to amend the Indiana laws to conform to those of Ohio.

Extend Probe to Coal.

Washington, May 12.—Announcement was made at the office of the interstate commerce commission Friday that the investigation now being conducted under the Tillman-Gillespie resolution with respect to coal and oil will be continued in Philadelphia beginning Tuesday next. This hearing will be confined strictly to the subject of coal, and it is said that a number of important operators and railroad officials will be examined.

The Brethren

"Doubtless, if he will, but he swears he is powerless."

At length Hassan would bear it no more. One morning Lozelle came off from Linazol, where he slept at night, bringing with him three Syrian boys, who visited the ship—not to bargain, as they pretended, but to obtain sight of the beautiful Princess Rosamund. Thereon the common talk began of homage that must be paid before food was granted, falling which the emperor would bid his seamen capture the ship. Hassan listened awhile, then suddenly issued an order that the lords should be seized.

"Now," he said to Lozelle, "bid your sailors haul up the anchor and let us become for Syria. As well die of thirst and starvation on the sea as rot here with fever. Bid the sailors lift the anchor and hoist the sail, or I loose my scimitars among them."

Now Lozelle stamped and foamed, but without avail, so he turned to the three lords, who were pale with fear, and said:

"Which will you do—find food and water for this ship, or put to sea with out them, which is but to die?"

They answered that they would go ashore and supply all that was needed.

"Nay," said Hassan, "you bide here until it comes."

In the end, then, this happened, for one of the lords chanced to be a nephew of the emperor, who when he learned that he was captive sent supplies in plenty. Thus it came about that the Syrian lords, having been sent back with the last empty boat, within two days they were at sea again.

Now Rosamund missed the hated face of the spy Nicholas, and told Hassan, who made inquiry, to find—or so said

Lozelle—that he went ashore and vanished there on the first day of their landing in Cyprus, though whether he had been killed in some brawl or fallen sick or hidden himself away he did not know.

When the galley was nine days out from Cyprus, steering for the coast of Syria, a wind sprang up that grew gradually to a gale, blowing toward Syria, and before it they died along swiftly. Worse and stronger grew that gale till on the evening of the second day, when they seemed in no little danger of being pooped, they saw a great mountain far away, at the sight of which Lozelle thanked God aloud.

"Are those the mountains near Antioch?" asked Hassan.

"Nay," he answered, "they are more than fifty miles south of them, between Ladikiya and Jebel. There, by the mercy of heaven, is a good haven."

"But we are steering for Darbesak, not for a haven near Jebel, which is a Frankish port," answered Hassan angrily.

"Then put the ship about and steer there yourself," said Lozelle, "and I promise you this—that within two hours every one of you will be dead at the bottom of the sea."

Hassan considered. It was true, for then the waves would strike them broadside on.

"On your head be it," he answered shortly.

All that night they pitched and rolled. At length they saw the top of the loftiest mountain grow luminous with the coming dawn.

"Take courage," cried Lozelle. "I think that we are saved." And he hoisted a second lantern at his mast-head, why they did not know.

After this the sea began to fall, only to grow rough again for awhile as they crossed some bar, to find themselves in calm water and on either side of them what appeared in the dim, uncertain light to be the bluish clad banks of a river. For awhile they ran on, till Lozelle called in a loud voice to the sailors to let the anchor go and sent a messenger to say that all might rest now, as they were safe. So they laid them down and tried to sleep.

But Rosamund could not sleep. Presently she rose and, throwing on her cloak, went to the door of the cabin. It was a lonely place—at least she could see no town or house, although there were lying not fifty yards from the tree-lined shore. As she stood thus she heard the sound of boats being rowed through the mist, and perceived three or four of these approaching the ship in silence; perceived also that Lozelle, who stood alone upon the deck, was watching their approach. Now the first boat made fast, and a man in the prow rose up and began to speak to Lozelle in a low voice. As he did so the hood fell back from his head, and Rosamund saw the face. It was that of the spy Nicholas! For a moment she stood amazed; then she cried aloud:

"Treachery! Prince Hassan, there is treachery!"

As the words left her lips, fierce, wild looking men began to scramble aboard at the low waist of the galley, to which boat after boat made fast. The Syrians also tumbled from the benches where they slept and ran aft to the deck where Rosamund was. Prince Hassan appeared, too, scimitar in hand, clad in his jeweled turban and coat of mail, but without his cloak, shouting orders as he came. To him Rosamund cried out that they were betrayed, and by Nicholas, whom she had seen. Then a great man, wearing a white burnoose and holding a naked sword in his hand, stepped forward and said in Arabic:

"Yield you now, for you are outnumbered, and your captain is captured, and he pointed to Lozelle, who was being held by two men while his arms were bound behind him.

"In whose name do you bid me yield?" asked the prince, glaring about him like a lion in a trap.

"In the dread name of Sinan, in the name of the lord Al-Jed-din, O servant of Salah-ed-din."

At these words a groan of fear went up even from the brave Saracens, for now they learned that they had to do with the terrible chief of the assassins.

"Is there then war between the sultan and Sinan?"

"Aye, there is always war. Moreover, you have one with you, and he pointed to Rosamund, who is dear to Salah-ed-din, whom, therefore, my master desires as a hostage."

"How knew you that?" said Hassan, to gain time while his men formed up.

"How does the lord Sinan know all things?" was the answer. "Come, yield, and perhaps he will show you mercy."

"Nay, we yield not," said Hassan. "And here, assassins, you have to do not with poison and the knife, but with bare swords and brave men. Aye, and I warn you that your lord that Salah-ed-din will take vengeance."

"Let him try it if he wishes to die, who hitherto has been spared," answered the tall man quietly. Then he said to his followers, "Cut them down, all save the woman and Emir Hassan, whom I am commanded to bring living to Alasayf."

"Back to your cabin, lady," said Hassan, "and remember that, whatever befalls, we have done our best to save you. Now, soldiers of Salah-ed-din, fight and die as he has taught you how."

They answered with a fierce, guttural cry. Then, as Rosamund fled to the cabin, the fray began, a hideous fray. On came the assassins with sword and dagger, striving to storm the deck. Again and again they were beaten back, but more boat loads came from the shore, and the Saracens were but few, worn also with storm and sickness, so at last Rosamund, peeping beneath her hand, saw that the poop was gained.

Here and there a man fought on until he fell beneath the cruel knives in the midst of the circle of the dead, among them the warrior Prince Hassan. See! His foot slipped, on the blood stained deck. He was down, and ere he could rise again, three fierce, thrower cloaks over him, these fierce, silent men, who even with their lives at stake remembered the command of their captain to take him living. Rosamund noted it, and, remembering that his command was also that she should be brought to him unharmed, knew that she had no violence to fear at the hands of these cruel murderers.

"It is finished," said the tall man in his cold voice. "Cast these dogs into the sea who have dared to disobey the command of Al-Jed-din."

So they took them up, dead and living together, and threw them into the water, where they sunk, nor did one of the wounded Saracens pray them for mercy. Then they served their own dead likewise. This done, the tall man advanced to the cabin and said:

"Lady, come. We are ready to start upon our journey."

Having no choice, Rosamund obeyed him, and, followed by Prince Hassan, he led her to the boat.

The time for holding biennial conventions of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America was changed from the first Monday in May to the second Monday in June.

Chancellor Day Rebuked.

Chicago News: If Chancellor Day thinks he can get the people excited because the president has landed on the oleaginous neck of the Standard Oil company, it is evident that he has not mixed with the people, talking to them on the subjects nearest their hearts. Some of your college professors who think the world is coming to an end if the last bolt of red tape is not unwound should take a day off and catch up with the times. How could the constitution makers look ahead and see the Standard Oil company? It is easy enough to sit back in an endowed chair and say that the law prescribes the proper means to correct all evils, but when a man with a $10 lawyer goes into court against the Standard Oil battery of legal talent he begins to have his doubts. People who make it a point never to go home at night without taking a special privilege to the loved ones have been shouting "Socialist!" at the president without causing any of his supporters to lose sleep and neither will the president cease to pursue the even tenor of his way because a college student oils up his voice and shouts "Anarchist!"
